Recommendation That They Be Sold to the Highest Bidder. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.-Mr.

Anderson, receiver of the Union Pacific railroad, and ex-Congressman Coombs, government director, appeared before the house committee on Pacific railroads today. They asked that the Union and Central Pacific roads be put up for sale as a whole and given to the highest bidder. Anderson submitted an amendment, giving additional safeguards to the government, to the bill presented to the committee by him providing for the issue of several patents to several roads. The Union Pacific, he sale of lands for the payment of the sale of lands for the payment of interest on bonds. What was done with the money secured from the bonds he did not know. The Union Pacific was very much misunderstood as to its financial ability, for, though it was insolvent, it had been able to pay every bill for operating expenses. The proposition to sell the properties in two separate parts was not good. They should be sold as a whole and in that way would bring a much higher price than otherwise. All appropriations they might be, it was impossible to secure unamimity of opinion from so large a body.

Combs agreed with the proposition that the roads should be sold together and in order to carry out the original plan, they should be a through line from the Missinsippi to the Pacific. The government would probably obtain 375,090,000 from them. It might be well, he thought, for the government to protect itself by Coombs, government director, appeared before the house committee on Pacific making the upset price. It would also be well to bring those parties owning terminal facilities into the suit, in order to settle the question whether the torminals should be sold with the road. The government should not sell its lieu upon the properties, for, though it would relieve the government, the lines would be left with their old complications. But if it came to a question whether the government should operate the roads, it would be better, he thought, to surrender all its rights than to make such an attempt. If we can rid ourselves of these railroad scandals, the value of our stocks all over the world would appreciate.

Coombs grew irritated at the repeated questions from Sulzer, which he thought were not couched in proper language, and inquired whether Sulzer was attempting to buildoze him. He said he did not think the government should suarantee the bonds of the road if sold.

PETTIGREW'S SPEECH.

Says the Railways Controlled the South Dakota Legislature.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Feb. 20—A large audience assembled last night to hear Senator Pettigrew's promised speech exposing the combine which the railroads are said to have formed to overthrow him. The speech was not so sensational as was expected. He declared that the railroads had for years been conspiring to cheat South Dakota of her rights, and that a year ago the jobbers of Sloux Falls had combined to bring before the legislature a bill to correct the abuses. Although the Republican party had adopted a plank in its platform supporting this move, and the legislature was overwhelmingly Republican, that body had been absolutely controlled by several members of the lobby, who were in the pay of foreign corporations, and the bill was killed.

The remainder of his speech was devoted to the silver question. He took the most advanced stand against the gold standard. He favored demonetizing gold and making it a crime to make gold contracts. He appealed to the people to rise and overthrow the castern influences and demand the rights of the west. He warned his hearers that unless they did not take arms against the gold men and the railroads the Republican party was doomed here and the Populists would become dominant.
